

You are one diagnosis away from moving to Australia.

There is an unfunded medicine crisis in New Zealand.

Our politicians need to act now to save lives.

New Zealand is dead last, ranking 32nd out of 32 OECD countries for public funding of medicines.

MyLifeMatters is a collective of patient advocate organisations representing more than 1 million patients.

We are seeking:

- Increased investment and timely access to medicines to cater to the growing healthcare needs of the New Zealand population, and to keep up with the rest of the OECD.
- Patient focused wellbeing benefits being included in decision-making processes on medicines investment by the New Zealand Government.
